SHOOTING TOOK PLACE AT MAJOR'S HOME IN NEW ORLEANS
SATURDAY NIGHT AND HE DIED TODAY

By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Arrests in the nation-wide raid on radicals last night and today had exceeded 4,500 at noon today it was estimated at the department of justice. More than half this number probably will be held for deportation, officials said.

Scores of parlor Bolsheviks were among those arrested in the raids. These, it was admitted, may have to be dealt with under state laws. Assistant Attorney General Garvan, in charge of the raids, said more than 2,000 persons were held on "perfect cases" and that the raid promised to be not only the greatest in scope, but also the greatest in results of any in history.

In every city where the raiding machinery was set in motion, he said, success attended the efforts. Four thousand warrants were issued but the arrests exceeded that number by about 500. Besides the 2,000 perfect cases, Mr. Garvan said, federal agents obtained sufficient evidence to justify the arrest of others.

In nearly two score cities, department of justice agents swooped down upon headquarters and other meeting places of radicals, arresting hundreds and taking records and radical literature. Among those taken into custody were men, regarded by the government as being ring leaders in the anarchistic propaganda. Other leaders are being sought.

Hamon Leading In Early Reports From Precincts

Early returns from the republican precinct meetings held last night show that Jake L. Hamon is leading in the race for national committeeman in Pontotoc county and has probably carried the county. He carried three out of the four wards in Ada, and secured the delegates from Dags, Roff, Fitzhugh and Dolberg.

Delegates to attend the county convention at Ada Friday, January 3, were elected from the various wards of Ada as follows: Ward 1, C. E. Cunningham and R. H. Gladwell; Ward 2, C. V. Gowing and John Huber; Ward 3, W. E. Heady and John Lamb; Ward 4, J. M. Keltner and Fred Ford. Jack Kitchell was elected delegate from Dags.

The meeting in the first ward of Ada developed into an interesting fight between the Hamon and McGraw forces. The Hamon following led by M. F. Manville, finally won over the McGraw contingent, led by W. F. Schulte, by a vote of eleven to nine. Some confusion was caused in the third ward by the inability of some of the voters to find out where the meeting was being held.

The county convention will meet in Ada on Friday of next week at which time six delegates will be elected to represent the county at the district convention at Shawnee on January 16. Delegates will also be elected at that time to attend the state convention.

Abraham Rueff to Go Out of Pen on January 7, 1920

By the Associated Press
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 3.—Allowing for good behaviour credits, the penitentiary sentence of Abraham Rueff, political boss whose conviction was the outstanding feature of the famous San Francisco municipal graft cases, will expire January 7, 1920, according to records that have reached the governor's office at Sacramento.

"Abe" Rueff was sentenced in 1911 to serve fourteen years in prison. He was paroled in 1915 and since that time has conducted a real estate business here. He spent three years in jail here following his first indictment. In Rueff's trial, Francis J. Henery, chief of the prosecution counsel, was shot and seriously wounded by Morris Haas, a member of the jury venire. Haas subsequently killed himself in jail.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 3.—Major U. S. Hetrick, shot by an unidentified assailant in his home Saturday night, died early today.

Major Hetrick was shot in the head when he grappled with a man who rushed into his home apparently in search of another person. The intruder fired at close range and when his victim fell to the floor made his escape.

Physicians yesterday were hopeful that the man would recover but last night his condition became worse, and he died early today.

Major Hetrick fastly maintained that the man who shot him was seeing another person, and that there was no mystery concerning the affair.

The major was a West Point graduate, a native of Kansas City Mo., and served as colonel in the national army during the war.

However, the extra week will be made up by teaching six days a week. And this accounts for school on Monday. Teachers and students are returning from their vacation ready for work. Several new students reported today and the outlook for the new year is very gratifying.

No Arrests Have Been Made For Killing Of Ragland

KONAWA, Jan. 3.—(Special.)—No arrests have been made in the murder case of Tom Ragland, whose dead body was found yesterday morning on the highway three miles south of town. The officers are working on several clues and arrests are expected.

The first impression that the killing was done because of Ragland's war activities has completely disappeared, the public generally now believing that he was killed by personal enemies and that the letters received by several citizens were written to throw the authorities off the right trail. No one here believes that the killing had any connection with the anti-draft troubles of the right trail. The officers testified that they had peeped through the keyhole of the door and saw money and cards upon the table. All three of the defendants were placed on the stand and testified that there was no gambling going on and that there was no money in evidence. "Goldie" said he had been fumbling the cards but that there had been no game and no money bet.

In the absence of J. W. Dean, city attorney, Tal Crawford represented the city, while John Crawford appeared for the defendants. After hearing the testimony of both sides the mayor adjudged the defendants guilty and assessed each of them ten dollars and the costs. The case was appealed.

After the case was disposed of Attorney John Crawford was chided by some of his friends on the fact that while he is an experienced criminal lawyer with over twenty years practice at the bar he had no chance with his baby brother, who is not only young at the practice but who is young in years as well.

Can't Help Us In
Matter of Sugar

By the Associated Press

Buenos Aires, Jan. 3.—There appears to be little chance that the United States or any other country suffering from sugar shortage will receive any help for some time to come from Argentina.

The sugar growers of Tucuman, the principal sugar producing province, appealed recently to President Iglesias, saying they had a surplus of 50,000 tons and asking him to revoke the decree forbidding exportation. Labor organizations raised a protest, declaring that exportation would result in an advance in the price to domestic consumers and saying that the surplus which the Tucuman growers had on their hands should be kept for the benefit of Argentina. Soon after President Iglesias announced that he would not revoke the decree.

Now comes a report from the Director General of Rural Economy and Statistics estimating that this year's sugar harvest will amount to 260,000 tons and saying that while there will be a surplus of 52,164 tons, it should be retained in the country as a reserve stock.

CANADA'S A-ROLICKING ON THE SNOW CRUST

The lid is lifted in Canada—er, the temperamental lid. The damper of war and absence of loved ones is removed. In local parlance, "la guerre est finie" and gay spirits are making up for lost seasons by a riotous whirl of winter sports.

As the days begin to lengthen and the cold begins to strengthen, the snow takes on a sparkling dryness that adds to the pleasure of outdoor sports. For the months of January and February all Canada bounces in toxicated with the desire to spend as many hours as possible in the open. Visitors to the Dominion find this mood infectious and nowhere is this more in evidence than in the quaint old city of Quebec.

Nature fashioned this city's site for sport. Every steep little street that claws its crooked way from the waterfront to the heights, is a possible slide, while the triple track toboggan slide that begins at the grim gray Citadel and ends in a huge snow bunker on Dufferin Terrace is world famous. The picturesque many-turreted Chateau Frontenac that overlooks this slide, is naturally headquarters for Society during its winter revels. Its charming tea-room opens onto the Terrace and glowing toboggans run in for a cheering cup, then disappear through another door that gives onto the inner court where skating and ice-dancing are in order.

Merry parties assemble in the tea-room at all hours. One party will be ready for a snowshoe tramp to "The Rendezvous" with its ten and cakes, five miles across country. Another group will have requisitioned the 1919 Model bob-sleighs, that form part of the Chateau's sport equipment, for a sporty racing event. An impending hockey match is providing spirited discussion and betting in a bunch about the big fire-place. Still another party is preparing to ski, and there is no reason why every visitor to Quebec should not learn this graceful sport for the Chateau management has engaged two Norwegian ski-jumpers to instruct its guests.

ment of about $375,000,000. Highly satisfactory improvements have been effected in the handling and treatment of clay products through the experiments of the Columbus station and they have resulted in large annual savings.

One of the most important economic problems the country has known since the days of '49 has been that of salvaging the low-grade ores. Billions of tons of mineral bearing earth have been scrapped in the West because the large operator had no time to bother with anything but "pay dirt" and the small operator lacked the funds for making the "low-pay" dirt yield its riches. In the Colorado radium-bearing fields the earth was at one time practically thrown at the European market for song because the yield was so trivial from American viewpoint. But the European buyers developed ways of getting radium out through reasonable treatment, and then shipped it back to us at stupendous prices. Through the efforts of the Golden, Colo., station and American extraction method had been developed and the ground work of a radium industry in this country established.

This same situation was true, and still is in part, of the other mineral fields, including the ore lands of the northwest and the Pacific, the lead and zinc fields of Utah and neighboring states and the iron lands of Minnesota. The Bureau of Mines now has stations established at Minneapolis, Salt Lake City, Utah, Seattle, Wash., Tucson, Ariz., and Berkeley, Cal., combating these low-grade ore problems and they are meeting with marked success.

In Minnesota alone it is estimated the reserve of low-grade magnetic iron ores amounts to some forty billion tons. Until recently these ores, including vast deposits of the Cuyuna Range, had been untouched because there had been no process devised for treating them profitably.

In Pittsburgh, the work of the Bureau of Mines has been very generally exploited and the experiment station has dealt largely with all the problems of mining, including those of mine safety. The particular problems of this territory have to do with coal mining and safety methods for combating mine gasses and explosions. Great savings have also been effected through the work of the experiment station at Bartlesville, Okla., where economic methods of oil drilling and stopping of waste in the natural gas fields has presented a problem.

"Work such as this," according to Director Manning of the Federal Bureau, "not only stimulates mineral production and helps to make available tremendous resources that are now unused, but it increases the total wealth of the nation and ultimately benefits every citizen."

Speaking of the situation particularly in the west, where low-grade earth must be made to pay, he said:

"At more than a dozen mills in the West engineers from the stations are working directly with the mill men on various problems, and the results they have already obtained more than warrant the existence of the stations. Success in solving one problem may easily be worth millions to the country."

VIRGINIA WOMAN HAS GAINED 25 POUNDS

"I was almost a complete nervous wreck when I started taking Tanlac, and it has not only completely restored my health but I have gained twenty-five pounds besides," said Mrs. C. H. Reid, 603 Chestnut street, Portsmouth, Va., recently.

"For three years," she continued,

"I was troubled with indigestion, nervousness, loss of sleep and headache. My food soured on my stomach and formed gas that pressed up into my chest and throat and around my heart so that I would have awful smothering spells. I had nervous headaches and pains in my back and shoulders would almost drive me wild. I would get dizzy and so nervous I would almost scream; I got down to eighty-five pounds and was so weak I would just give out several times during the day."

"After trying everything else I knew of without getting any better Tanlac gave me a splendid appetite and now I can eat anything and my digestion is perfect. I am not troubled at all with gas or palpitations, dizziness or smothering spells and I sleep soundly all night. Headaches, nervousness, pains in my back and shoulders are all gone and I never have that tired, worn out feeling any more."

Plans Being Made For Conservation Of Mineral Supply

WASHINGTON, D. C. Jan. 23.—Millions of dollars worth of mineral salvage has been effected recently through the activities of the Bureau of Mines in the campaign being conducted to improve the handling methods used in digging out America's great natural resources. Particularly in the last five or six years has the Government been watching with more than ordinary closeness the prodigal waste that exists in exploitation of American mineral and other natural resources, and every effort is now being bent to get the most out of the still lavish supply.

The present campaign, which is more of a policy of administration, is built around the chain of experiment stations to help in working out the most difficult problems confronting each community. In all there are eleven of these stations and they are geographically located so as to nearly approximate a separate station for each separate natural resource field.

In the clay industry, for instance, the Government has established an experiment station at Columbus, O., situated in the heart of one of the largest producing fields in the country. This station is cooperating with the clay digging interests and lending its advice and experiment services to the more than 4,000 clay product manufacturing firms of the country. The annual returns from this industry are approximately $210,000,000, and the clay firms of the country represent an invest-

Impressions telling of the latest rioting in the German capital, which brought about a declaration of martial law throughout Germany by the Ebert government, depict conditions which indicate that the present Ebert government is nearing its end. It was freely predicted when the armistice was signed that the government officials who "kneel to the allies" could not long hold sway. Premier Bauer of the Ebert cabinet shocked official circles during the rioting when he announced that Independent Socialist members of the assembly motioned the mob into action from one of the windows of the reichstag. In proclaiming martial law, President Ebert announced that Minister of Defense Gustave Noske had been made commander in chief of all armed forces in the empire to handle the situation.

WHO WILL GET THE BIG M.E. COLLEGE?

SCHOOL HEAD WRITES ABOUT BOOK SHORTAGE

COMMISSION WILL HOLD MEETING IN OKLAHOMA CITY MARCH 3, AT WHICH CHOICE WILL BE MADE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 23.—Bishop Edwin D. Mouzon of Dallas, chairman of the Educational Commission of the East and West Oklahoma conferences of the M. E. Church, South, has called a meeting of the commission for March 3 to be held in Oklahoma City. It is probable that at this meeting the commission will select the town or city or near which it is to be established the million and a half dollar college provided for by the two conferences in their last annual meeting.

The commission, of which the Rev. R. E. L. Morgan of Oklahoma City is secretary, has word that probably half a dozen towns and cities of the state will be bidders for the institution. It probably will be awarded to that which offers the best inducements.

The college is to be of the Class A variety, granting A. B. and B. S. degrees, and is to be affiliated with the Southern Methodist University of Dallas. Mr. Morgan expects that as much as $500,000 will be obtained from the general educational board of the church and that what is needed over that amount and the amount to be given by the community that gets the college will be raised from among the 60,000 members of the M. E. Church, South, in Oklahoma.

Membership in the educational Commission is held by Dr. L. S. Barton of Tulsa, the Rev. John Abernathy of Okmulgee, Judge Orlando Swain of Okmulgee and H. G. Barnard, representing the East Oklahoma Conference, and the Rev. R. E. L. Morgan of Oklahoma City, the Rev. J. W. Sims of Chickasha, Judge T. M. Robinson of Altus, and Dr. T. P. Howell of Davis, representing the West Oklahoma Conference.

Mr. Morgan, secretary to the commission, is educational secretary of the two conferences, a position he resigned the pastorate of the Broadway Methodist Church of Ardmore a few weeks ago to accept. He is devoting all his time to educational affairs of the church. For nine years he was a member of the board of education of the West Oklahoma Conference. He has the distinction of being a member of the Book Committee of the M. E. Church, South, which consists of six preachers and seven laymen elected by the General Conference of the church. He is also a member of the board of trustees of the Southern Methodist University of Dallas.

"This is to be one of the best Class A colleges west of the Mississippi River," says Mr. Morgan, "and naturally it will be a credit to the Methodist Church of Oklahoma. The two conferences are united on the project and there is no doubt of its being established. We are not seeking to put cities and towns in competition with each other, but we want to locate the school where it will have the best advantages and the largest possible fund for making it what we want it to be."

YANK TELLS OF NEED OF NEAR EAST PEOPLE

Special to the News:
OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 23.—F. H. Miller of Detroit, who served in the aviation section of the American army in France, in a letter to F. L. Carpenter of Muskogee, secretary of the Near East Relief in Oklahoma, describes part of the suffering of Armenians and Syrians as he saw it while in charge of the transport of relief workers in the Erivan district, republic of Armenia. Also he tells of the needs of those peoples. He writes:

"Belgium and northern France suffered much during the war but not as Armenia and Syria have suffered. In the country districts there are scores of ruined villages and houses, some completely destroyed, others so badly damaged as to be almost beyond repair. On the farms trees were wantonly cut down, crops uprooted, buildings wrecked and tools carried away.

"The survivors are coming back to decimated families, ruined homes, wrecked farms, no food, little work and no prospects. Unless America aids promptly and generously star-

Four years ago they were prosperous farmers, shopkeepers and business men. Now they have nothing and they and their kin are dying by the scores daily. The Near East Relief is doing splendid work, but must do more and more, for the need is great."

What a Court House Would Cost

On Saturday of this week the voters of Pontotoc County will vote on the proposition of issuing the bonds of the county for the purpose of erecting a court house and county jail. Thus far there has been no campaign made either for or against the bonds, and in order to furnish the voters of the county sufficient information to judge the merits of the proposition the Evening News on its own motion is submitting the following data to the public.

Amount of issue	$200,000.00
Date of maturity	25 years
Interest on bonds	5 1-2 per cent
Premium on bonds (already contracted)	$5,425.00

Additional cost of county each year—
(interest and sinking fund) $19,000.00
Present rent paid for court house each year $2,280.00
Net annual increase of cost to county $16,720.00
Total valuation of county for taxation $16,746,363.00
Increase in tax rate (if bonds carry) 1 mill (minus)

The following table will show the additional taxes paid by various taxpayers, if the bonds carry:

On a Valuation of—
$ 100.00	$.10
$ 500.00	$.50
$ 1,000.00	$ 1.00
$ 2,000.00	$ 2.00
$ 5,000.00	$ 5.00
$ 10,000.00	$ 10.00
$25,000.00	$25.00

The gross increase in the annual cost to the county would be $19,000.00. The annual rent now being paid for a rented court house is $2,280.00, which, deducted from the gross increase, would leave a net increase of $16,720.00. To raise this increase, a tax of slightly less than 1 mill would have to be levied on the county's valuation of $16,746,363.00.

There should be counted in the present expense of the county a considerable item paid as insurance on the county records, due to the fact that there is no fire proof building in which to keep the records. In fact the strongest argument in favor of a new fire-proof court house is that the county records are liable to destruction by fire at any time.

SUES "TIPPING TRUST" FOR $25,000 SHL COLLECTED IN RESTAURANT AS CHECKER

In two years Miss Hannah Stires says she drew $25,425 in tips from patrons of Chicago restaurants through her pleasant smiles while a hat checker. All of this money she was forced to drop into a camouflaged iron bank. This money was collected by the "Chicago Tipping Trust," which had the checking concessions at the restaurants. Now she is suing the "trust" for the money. She names three men in her suit and charges that they pay girls from $9 to $15 a week and compel the girls to turn over all the money.

In the recent statement of James J. McGraw concerning the demand of certain McAlester republicans that both McGraw and Hamon withdraw from the race for national committeeman, there is an expression frequently repeated that has a lot of political significance. The only answer that the man from Ponca makes is that the McAlester insurgents have not been heavy contributors to campaign funds. Five or six times McGraw says in his answer that the McAlester men have not donated to any extent, and, therefore, cannot be called good republicans. According to the spirit of his statement the only test of party fealty is the willingness to contribute the coin.

The expression of Mr. McGraw concerning campaign contributions is a sinister reflection of modern political sentiment insofar as politicians are concerned. With them it is only a game of dollars and a fight for spoils. More and more politics has degenerated into a scramble for loaves and fishes. Each year larger sums are demanded for campaign purposes and unless a citizen signs a check his party fealty counts for nothing. Principles are ignored and even ridiculed by men who fight political battles under the sign of the dollar mark.

Aside from the corruption which is an inevitable incident of such political practices there is a vital evil in a situation that more and more drives the man of limited means from political activity. Unless a man is wealthy, he carries a heavy handicap in a fight for political recognition. We often hear it said of some one of the brainiest citizens of Oklahoma: "He would make a splendid official, but he hasn't the money to make the race," or "he will be a candidate if he can raise the money." Thus the wealthy scoundrel is driving the best men of limited means from public life.

Statewide primaries have retired some of the best men in Oklahoma. The expense of a statewide campaign cannot be borne by any except wealthy men. The only way for a poor man to win a statewide election is to secure campaign donations from his friends or from interested concerns. This frequently places the successful aspirant under a mortgage to a vicious interest and opens the way to malfeasance and scandal. A man elected to office through the charity of a special interest is not going to find it easy to forget to favor that interest while in office. Yet the primary has come to stay and is one of our permanent institutions.

The Newberry case in Michigan is notorious only because it has been exposed and not because it is the only case of its kind. But the Newberry case illustrates the evil of huge expenditures in political campaigns and raises the very pertinent question: "How far in a Michigan contest would a man get who has no qualification but brains?" Unless he is wealthy, he is foolish for announcing.

This evil is a cancer affecting all parties alike. No political organization is free from the taint. Corruption is increasing year after year. Wealthy mediocrity is taking possession of public office. And the people are paying dear for the capers of spoilsman.

More than two-thirds of January has gone, and the more we see of this year 1920 the better we seem to like it. We may be feeling better nowadays or simply misreading the signs of the times, but it seems to us that the world has taken a turn for the better. It may be that all the devilment in creation played out during 1919, and it may be that the world-wide high jinks of the old year makes any old thing look good in comparison. But it seems as if we can see a decided change for the better. Most of our troubles have been imaginary, anyway, and as soon as everybody quits predicting disaster, the world will be far on its road to recovery.

The more we see of this national price reduction campaign the more we understand why a man named Figg should be at the head of it. The only possible improvement would be to get a manager named Prunes.

More people are now asking questions about Havana than at any time since the Spanish-American war, and most of the talk started about the 16th of this month.

"A Village Called Perthes"

How many Americans have ever heard of Perthes, a village of the Champagne? And how many Americans have not heard of Chateau Thierry and Vaux and Sergy and Ourcq?

Few if any of our population have failed to hear of the villages clustering along the Marne northeast of Paris or of that obstinate defense of the Allied lines in July, 1918, when the armies of the German Crown Prince made the last drive towards Paris. The story of Chateau Thierry and the Marne is a familiar one—so familiar in fact that most Americans believe till this good day that the last drive was made along the Marne southwest of Reims and that the entire drive was within a crescent resting on Reims and Soissons and reaching to Chateau Thierry.

Not many Americans know that the heaviest part of the drive was EAST of Reims and that one of the most brilliant achievements of American arms was in the Champagne at "a village called Perthes." War correspondents were along the Marne and filled the press with accounts of the superb heroism of the French and Americans at Chateau Thierry. Consequently that part of the drive is familiar to all Americans. There were no war correspondents east of Reims. Consequently Americans are not informed as to what occurred at Perthes.

The Crown Prince on the night of Bastille Day—July 14—attacked on a front of fifty miles. Twenty divisions attacked west of Reims. Twenty-five divisions had been massed east of Reims, and following the heaviest artillery fire ever put forth by the German armies, they advanced to the attack at daybreak on July 15. The vital point of the Allied defensive was at the village of Perthes, held by the "Rainbow Division" of the American army. At another point in the line was the Fifteenth Infantry, a regiment of American negroes.

West of Reims the Germans forced the passage of the Marne and made considerable gains, only to be hurried back by one of the most determined counter-attacks in history. East of Reims, where the Crown Prince had massed his forces, the offensive was stopped dead in its tracks. Not an inch of ground was gained by the Hun.

Two French armies defended the country west of Reims. One army commanded by Gouraud held the lines to the east.

Gouraud was known to the people of France as the "Lion of the Argonne." He had lost an arm in the ill-fated expedition to Gallipoli. In the Argonne fighting of 1914 he had sustained an ugly wound in the thigh from shrapnel and by his heroism had saved his men from annihilation. He was in command in the Champagne when the last German drive began, and so alert had been his staff that he knew to a minute when the German barrage was to be put down and how many divisions were to advance to the charge. He also knew the point of most violent attack.

It was the belief of the German staff that the French would celebrate Bastille Day, that the French soldiers would be drinking, and that the French army would be off its guard. Therefore they decided to begin their artillery fire at midnight of the 14th. The artillery preparation for the assault was to last four hours and twenty-five minutes. Then the infantry was to advance in massed formation and overwhelm the French lines, which by that time would be shot to pieces by the artillery.

But all this was known to Gouraud. On the night of the 13th a French party had raided a German trench and had captured two German prisoners. These had revealed the German plans. They had told the exact minute the German artillery was to open. They had told the exact minute the infantry was to attack. The had told what divisions were to attack and exactly where each division was to attack. Moreover, they had told just where each division was to form its lines while the artillery preparation was under way.

As the French returned from their raid on the German trench, a French Grenadier said to an American doughboy: "You should have been with us. We use ze liquid fire. We burn him to death. It was verree beautiful."

Having all the information he needed, Gouraud formed his plans. His men were withdrawn from the front line trenches. Only volunteers were left to patrol the trenches abandoned and each of these volunteers knew that he was volunteering to be killed. All but sixty of them were killed. These sixty were afterwards decorated by their government.

At midnight the German artillery opened according to plan. But Gouraud had beaten them to it. Five minutes before the clocks struck the midnight hour every French and American gun opened. Behind the salient held by the Rainbow Division and certain French units, eighteen hundred Allied guns had been massed. These opened as one gun. Behind the German front lines their divisions had been massed for the attack and these were caught in a fearful tempest of steel. Knowing exactly where each German unit was to be stationed the Allied artillery knew exactly where to plant their shells. In one village a division of Prussians had been massed. Around this village a box barrage was put down by the French and not a German escaped unharmed.

When the waves of Germans advanced at daybreak they were stopped in their tracks. They had already been fearfully punished by the storm of shells. Seven different attacks were dashed to pieces against the rifles of the Rainbow Division. The negro doughboys of the Fifteenth Infantry here had their baptism of fire and fought like veterans. Not an inch of ground was won by the twenty-five divisions driven into the shambles by the German staff. They spent their strength in taking the empty front line trenches only to find their lines enfiladed by a hurricane of rifle and machine-gun fire.

An Oklahoma lad who fought at Perthes with the 117th Engineers of the Rainbow has told of that night and day of slaughter. "The engineers went in because every man was needed. Our regiment occupied the widest and deepest trench I ever saw. It was too wide at the top to furnish much protection from shrapnel. When the guns opened the ground simply heaved and rolled. Then when the smoke began to settle everything had an angry glare. We lay in a kind of daze. We were not exactly scared—we were too tired and hungry and sick to be scared. Dying was the easiest part. Just to our right was a regiment of mountaineers from Alabama. When the barrage started a big sergeant climbed out in front of the trench and yelled: 'Come on boys and take a look—it is the biggest show you ever saw.' But in a moment he was blown to pieces by a shell.

It seemed as though night would last forever. I remember noticing the most trivial things. A boy to one side of me was killed by shrapnel, and I remember wondering if I could run my little finger thru the hole made in his helmet by the splinter of shell. Another one of our boys had his head blown off and I noticed the nails had been knocked out of one of his shoes. I wondered for so long a time what had knocked those nails loose.

Then the German infantry came over and our boys yelled like panthers when they saw them coming. A lot of our Alabamians threw away their rifles and went out with trench knives to meet them. They never came back. I used my head and stayed in the trench, so I never got a scratch. During the morning one wave of Germans was cut off by a barrage that kept their reinforcements from coming up and cut off their retreat. They threw down their guns and marched into our trenches to surrender. But a lot of them got their throats cut when they jumped down into our lines.

The defense of the Champagne sector was vital. If the lines of Gouraud had been forced back, Chalons-sur-Marne would have fallen, the roads to the east would have been cut, Verdun would have been abandoned, and the eastern gateway into the heart of France would have been wide open. Never was greater service rendered the Allies than by the men who in the deep chalk trenches of the Champagne endured the heaviest artillery fire ever put down by Germany and crushed one of the heaviest battle formations the Hun ever sent to war. This was done in a large part at a village called Perthes.

FRANKS ITEMS

Everybody certainly is enjoying these pretty sunshine days that we are having at present.

There is still a good deal of moving and changing about here in this community.

Bro. Harper filled his regular appointment here Sunday at the 11 o'clock hour.

We met last Wednesday night and organized a singing class here at this place, and from now on the class will meet on Wednesday and Sunday nights and have singing. Everyone is invited to come out and take a part and help us.

Mr. J. Hugh is sick at this writing with the mumps.

The roads are so bad that our mail carrier can not come but about 2 times a week now, but we hope to have these roads improved in a few days.

The men of this community will have a regular road working the first of the week.

The school seems to be increasing in attendance from day to day.

SUMMERS CHAPEL

Weather has been very bad for the last week, but indications are that we may have some fairer weather.

Owing to the disagreeable weather we had no Sunday School or preaching at the Chapel Sunday.

Mowing is the order of the day in this part.

One week of school past, with fairly good attendance considering the bad weather.

Several in this section have cotton in the field yet.

J. V. Staats butchered hogs today (Monday).

Alvin Summers and Rance Tucker spent Friday night with the Haskins boys. They all were in the west part of the county Saturday.

A. J. Wood made a business trip to Ada Friday, returning Saturday. Quite a change has been made in our mail line from Maxwell to Center.

The mail is now being carried through to Ada and back to Maxwell the same day. It is carried in a Ford Truck.

Smith, the visitors' center was their best, both on floor and goal work. Sparrow and Aldridge were very much in evidence, the former getting three goals and the latter four.

Wm. Ledford of Ada is visiting this week with his son J. M. Ledford of this place.

Owing to the delayance of the mail from Center to Ada last Tuesday our writing was too late for publication. Hope this will reach the office in time.

The summary: Field goals, Roach 5, Smith 5, Aldridge 4, Chism 3, Kidd 3, Sparrow 3, Randalls 2; Fouls goals, Roach 6, Smith 2, Score, Baptists 32, East Central 28.

LADY DRUGGIST'S ADVICE TAKEN

"My sister-in-law is a druggist. She told me of several bad stomach and liver cases which were benefited by taking Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and advised me to try it. I had numerous attacks due to bloating and had almost constant pain in my stomach before getting your remedy. I am feeling fine now." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

THE EFFICIENCY OF ADVERTISING

If in a town where the merchants had never advertised much, they should form the practice of using publicity, what changes would take place?

On a non-advertising basis, if store buyers did find some special lot having exceptional worth for the money, they would not be able to attract public attention to it, and it might take them a long time to work it off.

On an advertising basis, if a store buyer had a chance to pick up a large lot at a reduced price, he would have confidence to go ahead. He could buy very largely in excess of the usual demand, depending upon advertising to bring in a lot of customers who would buy in advance of actual needs.

The first result of advertising, then, is to make it possible for merchants to do business in a bigger way, to buy in larger lots at lower prices, to take advantage of special opportunities and give their customers the benefit.

CONVICTIONS NOT EVERYTHING

Muskogee Times Democrat: Governor Robertson says there are five hundred men in the state penitentiary who ought never to have been sent there. We cannot dispute the Governor's figures because we know of no way of getting the information. We do, however, thoroughly agree with the governor that generally speaking, the attitude of county attorneys is to try to make a record by securing a high percentage of convictions of the number of cases tried. This is natural because the public also takes that view. A theory seems to have grown up that a county attorney is a "prosecuting" attorney and that unless he convicts the people brought before him for trial he is not much of a lawyer, and naturally no county attorney desires that reputation.

We believe this theory is wrong.

It is the duty of a county attorney to investigate the complaints filed, and if the facts seem to justify, send the defendant to prison. But it is equally the duty of a county attorney, if he finds the facts do not sustain the charge, to decline to prosecute the defendant.

We do not believe judges are influenced in these matters so much as county attorneys are. Any judge who is, is not fitted to grace a bench. We have known one judge, and a federal judge at that, who took great pride in the fact that he tried a murder case every day for an entire term of court lasting nearly two weeks. We do not believe that a murder case can be tried and all the facts developed in one day. That judge made expediency rather than justice his hobby.

We believe that a county attorney and a judge render greater service by keeping up with court work and seeing that litigation is not delayed than they do by trying to establish a record for the number of convictions secured.

PIGS IN WINTER.

"Well," said Mrs. Black Pig, "winter is with us; we'll soon feel the cold."

"What is winter?" asked Mrs. Brown Pig.

"Winter is winter," said Mrs. Black Pig.

"Why you don't say so," said Mrs. Brown Pig.

"Yes, I do," returned Mrs. Black Pig.

"I don't know any more than I did before," said Mrs. Brown Pig.

"You were never great on adding to what little learning you had," said Mrs. Black Pig.

"Ah," said Mrs. Black Pig, "that shows you're stupid. Just because I am your neighbor, it doesn't mean that I'm your friend."

"It should," said Mrs. Brown Pig.

"Maybe it should, but it doesn't," said Mrs. Black Pig, "and you ought to be wise enough to know it."

"Well, I'm glad to learn," said Mrs. Brown Pig. "I'm very glad to learn. Just let me reach for that piece of weed you have there," she added, trying to grab a piece of weed from Mrs. Black Pig. She had to admit that she was trying to do it for Mrs. Black Pig, had seen her out of her right eye, which had been looking straight at her.

"If you were neighborly and a friend at the same time," said Mrs. Black Pig, "you wouldn't try to get my food away from me. Instead you would say, 'My dear neighbor, Mrs. Black Pig, and at the same time, my dear friend, Mrs. Black Pig, may I not give you some afternoon weed or some morning vegetable or some between-time carrots?'"

"I wouldn't be myself if I said such a thing," said Mrs. Brown Pig. "You wouldn't have me change my ways, would you?"

"I would like you to change yours and have everything for me," said Mrs. Black Pig.

"That would be quite unfair," said Mrs. Brown Pig, "so I will never change my ways."

"Neither will I," said Mrs. Black Pig, "so I guess we'd best be just neighbors and leave out the part about being friends."

"Perhaps it would be wiser," said Mrs. Brown Pig, "for you would not understand the meaning of friendship."

"It's just what you wouldn't understand," said Mrs. Black Pig.

"Your idea of friendship," said Mrs. Brown Pig, "would be to have everything your own way and have everything done for you and never bother about anyone else."

"Isn't that your idea of friendship, too?" asked Mrs. Black Pig.

"Well, yes," agreed Mrs. Brown Pig.

"Well, I'll tell you," said Mrs. Black Pig, "we can never become great friends in the pig family. We can get along all right, but we can't become beautiful friends, and I'll tell you the reason.

"We are selfish, and if creatures are selfish they can't really understand friendship, for friendship means doing things that are often hard as long as they're being done for one's friends, friendship means being unselfish and thinking of others and getting pleasure out of doing for others. And that is quite beyond the pig family."

"Oh, I quit,"

said Mrs. Brown Pig.

"We won't even talk about it any more, as long as you won't be the sort of friend who'll give me

everything and not expect me to act friendly in return.

"But you were going to tell me what you meant by winter."

"Winter is the cold time of the year," said Mrs. Black Pig, "when we stay indoors all the time."

"Oh, I understand," said Mrs. Brown Pig.

"But what difference does it make whether it is winter or not? As long as there is eating and sleeping to do the seasons make no difference."

"No difference at all," agreed Mrs. Black Pig.

"Eating and sleeping are the things that make life worth while!"

His idea.

Little Sydney was very upset about his mother's headache.

"Mumminie," he said, "when you have toothache, to get rid of it you have your teeth pulled out?"

"Yes, dear," weakly replied his mother.

"Well," replied Sydney, brightly,

"why not have your hair pulled out to stop the headache?"
